Australian Angus & Coote Catalogue of 1937 with Some Walther Pressed Glass

Dear Mr. Geiselberger,

I recently came across some possible Walther items in a Australian Angus & Coote catalogue from 1937. Angus & Coote, Sydney, were Australian jewellers who also carried glass items. This catalogue was posted to a Miss Carroll, postmarked 24. Feb. 1937.

I've uploaded those Angus & Coote catalogue pages to my website, so you can copy them from there. I have no idea who "Stephanie Crystal" would have been, but there might have been an importer rebranding imported items under unchallenging women's names, since it seems that at least some Polish Zabkovic glass was sold as "Beverly Crystal". There was a lot of Inwald cut glass in Australia, so I guess that's a possibility?

... catalogues_012.jpg - Inlcudes Walther 'Nymphen' trinket set, 'Muschel' (woman on shell), the figural flower bowl is 'Arabella' in 'Juno' bowl (a similar pattern to 'Juno' was made by Crown Crystal, moulds ordered in July 1936), a 'Luxor' vase (p. 2, bottom, centre), 'Hubertus' bowl, plus others I don't recognise off hand. Are these definitely Walther?

SG: Wegen der Weltwirtschaftskrise, die 1929 begonnen hatte und erst um 1936 überwunden war, konnte die Sächs. Glasfabrik August Walther & Söhne erst um 1936 wieder in Englisch sprechende Staaten exportieren. Gerade die USA und England hatten wegen der Weltwirtschaftskrise die Einfuhr von Glas erschwert. Das galt in England für das gesamte Commonwealth, zu dem auch Australien gehörte. Die Gläser von Walther im Catalogue Angus & Coote 1937 können also theoretisch bereits nach 1931 - Zusammenschluss der Sächs. Glasfabrik mit Aug. Walther & Söhne - in das Programm aufgenommen worden sein. Exportiert werden konnten sie erst ab 1935/1936. Walther-Pressgläser im Catalogue Angus & Coote 1937 findet man erst in MB Walther 1934.

Im Vergleich zum "riesigen" Angebot von Walther um 1936 tauchen in Australien eigentlich nur wenige Gläser auf - sicher ein Ergebnis der englischen Einfuhrbeschränkungen.

Von dem Export-Katalog "Domestic Pressed Glassware", der Sächs. Glasfabrik Aug. Walther & Söhne, um 1932, ist nichts im Catalogue Angus & Coote 1937 gelandet! Dieser Katalog enthielt allerdings auch viele "Ladenhüter"!

Außerdem erschwert der um 1935 weltweit verbreitete Stil des "reichen" Pseudoschliffs das Auffinden der Pressgläser von Walther in Musterbüchern wie Angus & Coote 1937.

Pressglas von Brockwitz ist im Catalogue Angus & Coote 1937 nicht vertreten.
